

Design #2: Music CD Cover

I designed a music CD cover for the punk rock band Wayland Lodgers debut album “Laughing at Love.” For the front cover I used a picture of the band members as the background with a sharp, jagged border along the edges. This border is analogous to the attitudes of the punk band members. Just looking at the cover gives customers a feel for the type of hard rock music the Wayland Lodgers sing. On the back cover I repeated the name of the album along with a list of the eleven songs it includes. To give the cover some visual appeal I added a picture of a drum set on the right and the bands logo in the bottom left corner. To make the back cover flow with the front cover, I used the same sharp, jagged border. For retail purposes a barcode and the copyright information were also included at the bottom of the back cover.
